LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Hi everyone! <3
A very warm welcome to the ninth edition of LSEK's magazine, LÄCKT. This is MU26's very first issue, and ever since we took over the baton from our dear parents in MU25, we've been up to so much fun - even if we still feel like newborn calves with shaky knees sometimes.

Our photographers, Ella and Anton, have created pure magic, capturing everything from banquets and kravaller to committee meetings, parties, and various other events. Our Head of Film, Andreas, deserves an Oscar for the Hurterimästerskap film, Jossan has been Bossan, steering the ship in the right direction, and Vilma has taken such good care of us all. Alva, my designer and other half, has constantly surprised us with her incredible creativity and her way of thinking outside the box. I've genuinely started looking forward to Mondays, simply because I get to meet this fantastic crew.

I want to thank all the committees, workgroups, our new guest in LÄCKT, our sponsors, Maja in FOUL26, Malte in Styret26, and everyone else who has contributed to this edition. A huge thank you to all our readers - whether you're holding the physical magazine in your hand or reading it on our website. Without you, we are nothing!

We have a well-deserved summer break to look forward to, so sit back and enjoy.
Happy reading!

Ask what yoUU want

I'm a moderately chubby student in my prime and I always end up getting #VALUE! errors in my Excel sheets. What should I do?

Hugo

ANSWER: LOW-KEY JUST DROP THE COURSE. IF YOU NEED EXCEL, IT'S POINTLESS TO EVEN TRY TO PASS.

I'm a guy who is 8,363 days old and buys too many football jerseys! HELP, my finances are collapsing!!!

Elliot

ANSWER: WHAT DO YOU MEAN TOO MANY?! GO OUT AND BUY ANOTHER ONE, YOU HAVEN'T SPLUURGED IN AGES!

I'm a girl of 21 summers who can't stop craving sweets, so I bake or buy sugary things often. Now I don't know what to do about it. HELP!!

Adelia

ANSWER: YOU CAN NEVER HAVE TOO MANY SWEETS, BUT GET SOME GOOD FRIENDS WHO CAN HELP YOU EAT THEM ;)

I'm a poor student of 23 Earth spins who always manages to be late for my exams, what should I do!?

William

ANSWER: YOU'RE NEVER LATE FOR AN EXAM, JUST 30 MINUTES EXTRA PREPARED AFTER THE EXAM PROCTOR LETS YOU IN!

I'm a girl of 26 whole springs who still hasn't found the money for a dishwasher, and every day the dishes pile up. I'm running out of forks! Help!!?

Bea

ANSWER: MOVE IN WITH A NICE GUY!! SOON YOU'LL NOTICE THE PILE OF DISHES NEVER GROWS BACK AGAIN.

I'm a moderately old guy who keeps attracting cars, but I don't share the same feelings. What should I do?!

Jim

ANSWER: WALK STEADILY, MY FRIEND. CARS SHOULD RESPECT YOU, NOT THE OTHER WAY AROUND!

INTERIOR DESIGN ON A BUDGET

ISN'T CSN ENOUGH TO MAKE YOUR HOME COZY? HERE ARE ELLA'S BEST TIPS!

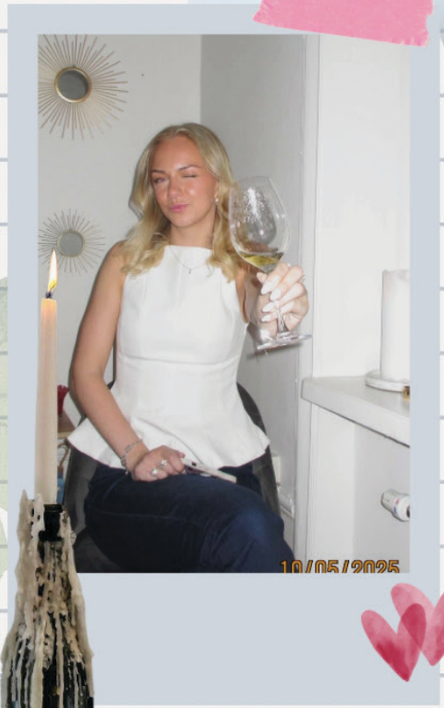

Make your own lamp!!! Isn't it hard to find a nice lamp??? I made mine myself, and both my partner & i were so happy (Tiktok has instructions)

Having trouble finding the right one? Air-drying clay is a great craft to create small details that will give your apartment a little more personality! Soo nice!

Fake flowers!

Flowers wither and then you have to replace them = expensive. Fake flowers live FOREVER

They are also good if your partner doesn't buy you flowers (hint)

Skip going to the recycling and put candles in the bottles, saving both time and money!

Aphorisms for gaining TRUST

- Turn in the take-home exam late. The Lion deserves to rest.
- Playing trivia and lying about your points
- In continuous text, cite sources using the format (xxxx:xx)
- Use your credit card at Kårallen
- Refuse to bike, sweat shows weakness
- Say yes to the receipt
- Unprovked lies gets you far
- Grunt at the gym
- Say no to family dinners
- Pretend to know what you are unsure about

"You're not even pretending. You're executing a heuristic projection of epistemological probabilities, meticulously calibrated to phenomenological observations whose validity is axiomatic within the framework of your own subjective reality." – Justin Bieber

DATES FROM HELL

1. I met up with a guy from Hinge who had lied about his height, classic. We ordered two glasses of wine and after finishing the wine he asked me to pay because his phone was dead and he said that he would pay for the next drinks. Cut to him being on his phone five minutes later, it was apparently not dead. We continue with a few glasses more. He buys beer after beer for himself and never offers me anything back. When I comment this he says that I probably make more money than him and that I can manage myself.... Later he talks about how much he's in love with his ex and that he believes he probably will never be able to love someone as much as her again. Continues to talk about his one night stands and goes into great detail about several of them, including how well the girls performed according to him. Lastly he talks about his time at the psychiatric ward... yeah, this was not my best date.

2. I texted with a guy on Hinge for two weeks and we really seemed to click. We decided to meet, and he took a two-hour train to Linköping for our first date. I met him at the station and... yeah, I was not impressed. Total catfish. We went to a café in Gamla Linköping, and as soon as we sat down he excused himself to go to the bathroom. When he came back, I had to drag the conversation back to life. Ten minutes later my sandwich was gone and he disappeared to the bathroom again. Seven minutes after that I felt like an entertainer, asking questions, nodding, smiling, wondering how long it would take him to finish eating so I could escape this nightmare. But no, he went to the bathroom again. After a walk through Vallaskogen I just wanted to go home and eat something. He suggested we go to my place... and I thought, "Fine, at least I'll get to eat." Guess what he wanted to see first when we got there? The bathroom. I put out some snacks and he came out again. I asked when his train was leaving. He looked at me intensely and said he'd tell me that, and something else, after he went back to the bathroom. When he finally returned, he told me his train left in an hour, sat closer to me, stared into my eyes and said, "I don't know if you've noticed, but when I really like someone, I get stomach problems." Oh really? I couldn't tell. How do you handle a grown man who can't manage his stomach when he's nervous and admits it on the first date? I said something like "it's okay," but those next fifty minutes were painfully awkward. I don't think he noticed. After dropping him off at the station (and dodging his attempt at a goodbye kiss), the first thing I did when I got home was check the bathroom. I was scared of what I'd find, and unfortunately I was right. I had to clean the toilet. Stains. STAINS I TELL YOU. I don't understand why he didn't clean up after himself, especially on a date. The brush and cleaner were right there. Then he texted me saying he'd been thinking about me on the train home. Yeah, well... I'd been thinking about him too, while scrubbing the stains out of my toilet. And that's how the fairytale of the stomach-ache prince came to an end.

DATES FROM HELL

3. My friend had set up a double date that he was super excited about and asked me to join. The date itself was fun, relaxed, and honestly really nice, and when it ended I thought, "Wow, this actually felt great, this could really go somewhere! We'll definitely see each other again." That feeling lasted right up until my friend suddenly got a text from his date, the one who arranged the whole thing, saying: "He does know my friend has been a lesbian for the past nine years, right..."

4. I signed up for a blind date and ended up being matched with a girl who was a lesbian. She had accidentally clicked that she was looking for men. We decided to go on the date anyway since it came with free entry to a concert. We had such a great time.

5. I matched with a guy on Hot or Not (I know). We met for a coffee, during which he completely dominated the conversation and talked about everything from refusing to take his schizophrenia medicine, hating his mom and not being able to afford the fuel back home after the date. When we were finally about to partways he pulled me into a deep tongue-kiss. We are talking tongue deep down the throat. In the middle of central Stockholm. I tried to ghost him, but had to block him after two months.

6. I dated a guy who said he had a surprise planned for our next date. He picked me up and drove to the Mall of Scandinavia in Stockholm, so I assumed we were going to some cozy restaurant. But when he started walking straight toward the arena, I got suspicious and asked, "We're not going to the arena, right?" (I knew AIK was playing, and I am a Djurgården supporter to the core). He said that was exactly where we were going. I told him I supported the rival team, and things got a bit awkward... but we'd had a nice time so far, so we went in anyway. The date actually improved for me when AIK lost, and then we left.

7. I matched with a Danish guy (the red flag should've been obvious) and we planned a movie night. We'd met a few times before and I thought he seemed nice. When I got to his place he offered me ice cream, but I was only allowed to take one because two were "too unhealthy." He wanted to show me a Danish classic, which sounded fun until I realized the movie was about two men trying to rape a teenage girl in a cabin in the woods. He laughed at it. I was disgusted, but for some reason I still kept seeing him a few more times...

8. I went on a date with a guy I wasn't interested in but he was tall so that took priority lol. He picked me up in his car, drove the wrong way twice, no music and then he took me to the saddest mini-golf place I've ever seen and played VERY seriously. My friends drove by several times with their car to watch the whole date and I couldn't stop laughing hahaha. After the mini-golf he took me to a church (!!!). We met up with a pastor who knew my name, so this dude had actually gone and told the pastor about me(?!). After this I got a one-hour tour of the church and was later forced into a church meeting with pensioners. I wanted to die.

WHAT DOES MÄRTA FROM CORREN THINK ABOUT LIU?

It took me a very long time to realize that Linköping was what you'd call a "student city." Growing up in a village sixty kilometers south of Linköping, I never really had a good grasp of the city. When I eventually started high school there, I thought everyone wearing overalls were weird, especially the ones with short dungarees and high socks. It wasn't until much later that I understood it was a "studentikos" tradition. I only truly found out that Linköping was a student city when I moved to a different one: Lund. There, everything was tailored to students: you could get a falafel wrap for 25 SEK, there were 13 "nations" to choose from, and student discounts were everywhere you went. The only similarity to Linköping was the strict opening hours at Systembolaget. Whenever I mentioned I was from Kisa—and that Linköping was the nearest "big city" with actual traffic lights—people would ask: "Why didn't you study there?" To me, the answer back then was obvious: "Can you even study there?" For me, Linköping was nothing but high school drama and bad make-out sessions on Ågatan.

Foto: Annie Hogner

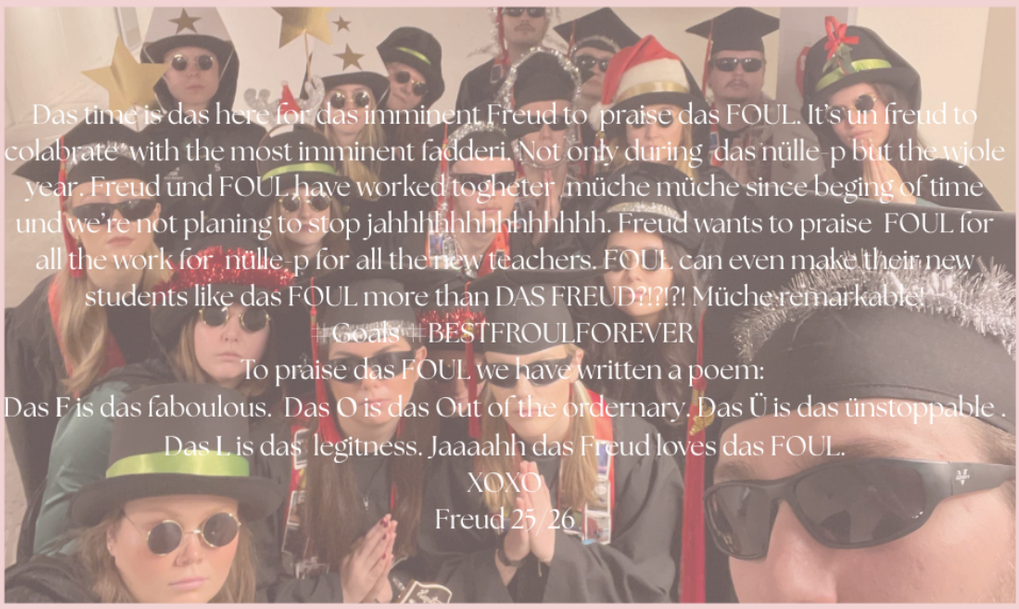

Yet, many people I encountered during my four years in Skåne had actually considered choosing LiU over Lund. I'll be honest—I didn't understand why. Eventually, after much back and forth, I moved back to Linköping. But not for studies—for a job at Corren. I was sent out to Campus Valla a few times, and I was a bit cautious at first. But then, I fell in love. Everyone says hello, everyone wants to be interviewed, and everyone wants free coffee. There's just something about the feeling of walking along "Corson."

So, the love for LiU took a while to grow, but now it's here to stay!

HAS ANYONE SEEN MY PARTNER?

He managed to escape at 1:27 AM, just as I was halfway through my rage bait questions...

I just know he's dying to answer the rest, so call me if you spot him!

In the meantime, I'd like to share my best questions with you. I take no responsibility for any potential breakups...

Xoxo,

//your editor

Would you break up with me if I cheated on you with ChatGPT?

Have you ever dreamed about someone else while you were sleeping next to me?

If you were forced to be unfaithful to me – either emotionally or physically – with someone you know: would you choose emotional or physical? And with whom?

If I thought mankinis were incredibly sexy, would you wear one to seduce me?

Would you rather sleep with your mom in my body, or with me in your mom's body?

When did you first realize you were in love with me? Tell me everything, in great detail. Again.

Am I smarter than I am pretty, or am I prettier than I am smart?

Which one of your friends do you think would try to hit on me if we broke up?

Would you still have dated me if I was from Skåne?

If you developed a little crush on someone else (but didn't want to leave me), would you tell me about it?

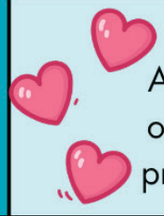

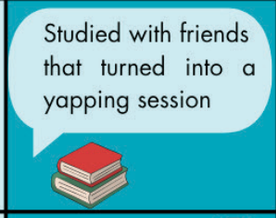

Would you rather: never have met me at all, or go out and cheat on me right now?

What was your first impression of me? Tell me everything in great detail. Again.

If you were forced to break up with me today for a legitimate reason – what would it be?

Are you really a student?

For us students, life isn't always like everyone else's. Weekdays have lost their meaning, our finances aren't what they used to be, but the excitement is constant. How much of our lives is actually a consequence of student life? Find out in the student-schedule! Each square is worth 1 point.

MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY
Pressbyrån A regular at Pressbyrån	 A flat tire	 A crush on your professor	 Overslept and missed the lecture	LADOK  A failed exam
 Queued to the micro	 Got lost in A - huset	 Felt the famous Orbi stress	 Coffee and a small pastry in Baljan	 Snus.

THE RESULTS

1–10 points – Student in theory

You're a student on paper and mostly show up for lectures. After that, it's straight home on your bike.

10–15 points – Student in practice

You've started to discover life outside the lecture hall, and it shows on your coffee budget

15–20 points – Student at heart

You and campus are basically one, we're not entirely sure you ever go home.

MU ANSWERS: YOUR QUESTIONS

Question: Laughing at the internet phenomenon "67" has started to take over all my mental energy. I'm not physically capable of avoiding it. I see it everywhere, in course literature, at my local grocery store, even in the shapes formed by the leaves on the tree outside my window. This worries me ahead of my upcoming teaching placement: what if I'm the only one, in a class full of high school students, who starts laughing when the number combination suddenly appears? What if the kids think I'm cringe, old, and lame? Please... what am I supposed to do? 😔

Answer: Dear 67-reader,
I'll be honest: it seems like it's too late. 67 has already been permanently imprinted in your mind. There's no turning back. Soon you'll see it in coffee foam, clouds, and maybe even in the world of dreams.
As for your teaching practices? Well... as an elementary school teacher, I'd say all high school students think their teachers are cringe anyway. Maybe just accept this fate?
So my only advice is: keep going. Smile, nod, teach... and accept that you're secretly living in a parallel universe where 67 reigns.
Sending strength // designer <3

Question:
My friend wants to eat cookies while sitting on the toilet all the time. I've told him to stop several times, but he just doesn't see how gross it is.

Answer: If it's his own bathroom and his own cookies, just let the guy be! But if you share the bathroom, or worse: if it's your bathroom, lock him in until he has learned his lesson. NO COOKIES ON THE TOILET MAN! //vice boss

Question: I'm in love with my study mentor. What am I going to do?

Answer: YOLO slide in the Orbi DMs - Just do it, regards Photo & Webb

Question:
How long is it okay to do laundry at a friend's place when the landlord hasn't fixed the washing machine for 2 months??

Answer:
After two months you can really start wondering whether the landlord is even alive anymore, or if they too are standing there doing their laundry at your friend's place by now. At that point, take the opportunity to start breaking something in the landlord's home for every day that passes with the washing machine still broken, just to see if they react. Start with something small and slowly work your way up to their grandma's urn.
With regards, the Head of Film

Question: Would you rather be the world's greatest singer, but everyone else is tone-deaf so nobody appreciates your music, or would you rather be so tone-deaf yourself that you can't even appreciate good music?

Answer: There is only one answer to this complex question. Naturally, one chooses to be the misunderstood super-talent. Being the world's best singer in a world of tone-deaf people is admittedly social suicide, but it is also the ultimate "it's not me, it's you" experience. The thought of never again being able to hear the finest notes we have - the musical geniuses Theoz and Samir Badran - would have been too great a loss. - Hugs, Bossan

Question: Hi MU26!
I have a problem: I think my 'dad' is in love with me. He is probably the most present committee-parent in the history of LSEK. Do you have any tips for this bizarre situation?

Answer: #relatable and teacher-incest have never really worked out for me before, BUT! I think it's so beautiful to dare to open up, to dare to trust again, and to dare to love. Many people hate on the teacher-incest, but we need to make one thing clear:
Actual incest: illegal. Not OK.
Teacher-incest: legal. Totally OK.
So if you like him back - go for it! If you don't, you can always distance yourself or just have a talk with him about it. Good luck!
//the editor

Question: SOOO, HELLO?! Can we talk about Love is Blind, season 3?!?! Rate the participants from most to least problematic... (excluding Ibbe & Aniela because they are so nice <3)
Lars-Erik, Daniel, Ludwig, Aron, Ronja, Johanna, Camilla, Angelica. If you have seen the reunion: pls comment!
Thank you very much

Answer: Ohhhh my favorite thing to talk about!!!!! Okay so, I think the whole season is problematic. They have kind of paired couples together so that it makes for good TV. HELLO!!! They should find love, not make good TV. But this is how I would rate (1 least, 8 most):
Ronja - love her I don't think she did anything wrong
Angelica - love her energy
Aron - Chill funny guy
Camilla - nothing special to say there
Lars-Erik - a bit of a weird guy but I can understand why he said certain things
Johanna - What world does she live in???
Daniel - Immature but not as problematic as Ludwig
Ludwig - CHILD
Can I also say that I believed in Angelica and Aron😍

ANTON'S PHOTOGRAPHY TIPS

The best camera is the one you have with you. Bring a small and lightweight camera. When the camera stops being a burden, you actually bring the camera with you and you take more pictures

If you're photographing with a tripod, don't do this pose

The biggest critic is often yourself. When starting out with photography, it's FORBIDDEN to compare your pictures with others.

Look for "natural frames" for your subjects. For example the face in the picture to the left works as a frame for the rest of the image

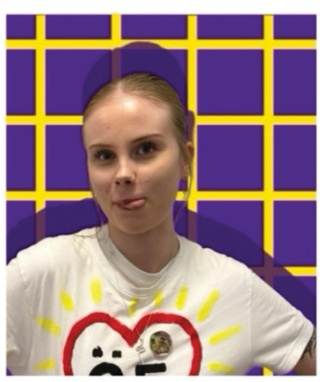

Always keep your camera close at hand, either around your neck or in your pocket. This way, it will be almost impossible to miss a moment.
